

Abstract

This thesis called „Television game shows and quiz shows in the Czech republic between 1989 - 2004“ deals with the historical development of television game shows and quiz shows in the Czech republic in the first 15 years since the so-called Velvet revolution in 1989. The first, theoretical part outlines some basic terms related both to television game shows and quiz shows and to television entertainment in general. The second part summarizes television competitions in Czech TV stations in the given period from the historical point of view.
